DEAR FAMILY MEMBERS AND SUPPORT SYSTEMS,

THE FOUNDATION CLINIC TREATMENT AND RECOVERY PROCESS

Your loved one is in a treatment and recovery process and we are here to support everyone involved. As part of the process we recommend that you also consider engaging in an individual or group support system. The idea of getting your own support is to help you move through past situations that are a result of the chaos that has been created through the substance use disorder of a loved one.

Judith Gordon-Drake, our clinical social worker, always works towards facilitating at least one family session. The aim of these sessions is education and support, so that everyone can begin to move forward. Donna Breet, our professional recovery coach, is also available for couples' and family sessions, to help you decide on the next steps for your family. This is particularly relevant to individuals in extended treatment programmes. She can be contacted at donna@thefoundationclinic.co.za.

We also offer group support on a Wednesday afternoon from 4:00 – 5:00pm so that families can connect with one another, while getting education and support of their own. The group is facilitated by Judith who has plenty of experience working with families. We strongly encourage clients to engage in individualised family sessions, but this is a recommendation and we cannot force your person to engage if they are not ready. If you would like to contact Judith to arrange a session for yourself or ask her for a recommendation, she can be contacted on drakeqs@worldonline.co.za.

With regards to confidentiality, the therapeutic team is only able to share information that your loved one is comfortable with. Engaging in family and/or couples' therapy is also about rebuilding trust and connection. In the case of emergency, abscondment and rule breaches, you will be contacted and informed about the situation. In the case of medical emergencies, we will contact you to share any necessary information. We take every measure to support and assist your loved one, so when situations do arise, we do our best to support the entire clinic in a healthy, structured and respectful way.

Please be mindful that a 3- to 6-week treatment programme is just the beginning of a long-term change process, and that we are here to support in creating a recovery foundation for individuals and families to build on. We know that healthy recovery requires consistent commitment in order to be sustainable, and that is why we offer our clients and their families access to the Recovery Wellness group for 11 months following inpatient treatment.
